Willkommen, Bienvenue, Welcome... Come inside The Glamour Patch club to see the star of our show, Miss Vivica Blue. Do you want to read my diary you nosy little devils? Have a glass of champagne (you'll need it) and get comfortable because you're in for some crazy shenanigans brought to you straight from the horse's mouth. I can be whatever you want me to be: boy, girl, a little bit of both. If you have a problem with a man in a dress then best be off with you. If males in make-up give you the willies, then I'll say au revoir and don't let the door hit you on the way out. So, who are we left with? Ah, a fine collection of curious souls. I want to tell you a tale of love, because those are the most glorious kind. I want to tell you about real love, a love that transcends labels and gender stereotypes. The moment I first laid eyes on my Freda I knew that we were kindred. Well okay, I also knew I wanted to get into her pants, but that's beside the point. My world was a grey place. I was at my lowest ebb. Then she came along and patches of colour began to spring forth. One day the daffodils were yellow and before I knew it, colour was everywhere, lighting up my life. Love is not about how we appear on the outside, it's about the soul contained within. Our story was not a conventional one, but it was ours, and that's what made it shine. Killer Queen is a companion novel to L.H. Cosway's contemporary romance, Painted Faces. It contains scenes that take place before, during and after the original story. It can also be read as a standalone.
