She had no idea what she was looking for...until it found her.

Officer Daniel Sinclair can spot an outsider a mile away. He ought to know—he's the worst kind. A natural-born native of Egypt, Missouri, who left home and came back citified. Even before he lays eyes on Cleo Tyler, his L.A.-honed suspicions tell him the psychic hired to locate Egypt's missing master key is a fraud. She also possesses a soft, exotic kind of beauty that sets him on edge.

Cleo's used to dealing with skeptics—in fact, she is one. She longs to believe abilities like hers don't exist, yet she can't explain the odd glimpses into other people's lives, nor the terrible flashbacks from her own past. She'd like nothing better than to put on a good show, collect the money, and hit the road. But behind Egypt's quaint façade is a chill she can't shake, and a powerful attraction to Daniel that's stronger than her increasingly desperate need to run.

Cleo more than makes Daniel uncomfortable. She sets him on fire—and sees right through him. And right through the town's charming veneer at something so deadly, her next vision could be her last.

This book has been previously published and revised from its original release.

Warning: Contains explicit sex, explicit fantasies, explicit visions, a to-dream-for alpha hero and a heroine who teaches him to lighten up.
